

Intellecter Completes Acquisition of GRL Search Solutions

Columbus, Ohio (Aug. 7, 2008) – Intellecter, a global human capital management firm helping corporations and government agencies in more than 32 countries attract, recruit, develop and retain top talent, announced today that it has completed its acquisition of Phoenix based GRL Search Solutions. The move combines Intellecter's best in class human capital management (HCM) strategies and solutions with GRL Search Solutions' world-renowned search and selection expertise.

"GRL has been one of our most valued partners for many years," said John Hamilton, Intellecter President and CEO. "They offer unparalleled customer service and results. GRL's extensive experience gives us a great competitive advantage. This move was a win-win for both organizations, but more importantly for the clients we serve."

GRL's senior management brings over 50 years experience in recruitment and staffing. As part of the acquisition terms, GRL will now operate as Intellecter. Combined, the two companies' market reach extends to more than 40 countries on five continents.

Ray Lill, President of GRL and former head of global staffing for Motorola, has been appointed CFO of Intellecter. Other appointments within Intellecter include Stephanie Seddon to COO, Matthew Jones to Vice President, Program Management.

"We are excited to join Intellecter and expand the quality recruitment, selection and retention solutions that we offer to clients," Lill said. "This merger solidifies our plans, ambitions and mutual direction under the leadership of John Hamilton. We share the passion and commitment to provide recruitment strategies and services to a broad base of industries."
